NAZIS CALL F. D. 'WAR MONGERER'

By PIERRE J. HUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, April 12—A violent attack upon President Roosevelt as an executive who is war-mongering only to save his job was launched by Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels' newspaper Der Angriff today.

The paper bitterly assailed Mr. Roosevelt's declaration at Warm Springs, Ga., that he would return there in the Fall "If we do not have a war," and took particular exception to his action in approving an American newspaper editorial interpreting this statement as an affirmation of Anglo-American collaboration.

Under the headline "American war hysteria joins British agitation," Der Angriff presented three pointed questions and called upon Mr. Roosevelt for forthright answers.

The questions follow:

1—Is it correct, Mr. President, that your war-like agitation toward a coming war will give you the last chance of saving your position?

2—Is it correct that you see no way of saving your job but to throw armaments profits into the jaws of your industrial opposition?

3—Is it correct that it is not the international situation, but your own personal connections and personal relationships that account for the malicious war agitation you are carrying on so constantly?

"Give us the answer, Mr. President," Der Angriff challenged.

"Out of respect for the head of a nation," the newspaper continued, "we are forbidden to char-

Vital Points on Europe's War Scene

WAR ARENA—Above map gives comprehensive idea of the present military situation in Europe, where borders are being manned and sea bases fortified to fighting pitch.

FRENCH-BRITISH WAR FLEET SAILS UNDER ONE COMMAND

PARIS, April 12 (AP)—The French government decided suddenly to make a formal statement to the world of its position in the international tangle as most of France's Mediterranean fleet sped to a secret destination.

The mission of the fleet, which slipped out of Toulon naval base last night, was not disclosed, but it was believed the warships were operating under a joint French-British command.

(The British Mediterranean fleet is commanded by Admiral Sir Dudley Pound.)

The same cabinet meeting which unanimously adopted extraordinary military measures reinforcing the French army and navy approved a frank declaration which Premier Daladier will issue tomorrow.

Admiral Pound

In conferences at the war ministry after the cabinet meeting Daladier ruled against broadcasting the statement. The Premier declared it would be a very brief communique, defining the French position exactly.

U. S. ENVOY CALLS

The final draft of the declaration was to be agreed upon later today in a conference between Daladier and Foreign Minister Bonnet.

The foreign minister made arrangements to receive William C. Bullitt, United States ambassador, and Sir Eric Phipps, British ambassador, before his talk with Daladier.

It was not yet decided at what

Neutrality Act Hit, Praised at Hearing

WASHINGTON, April 12 (INS)—Representative Van Zandt (R., Pennsylvania), three times national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, today told the House Foreign Affairs Committee that the neutrality act had turned out to be an instrument for "choosing sides," and that he felt that he "should now apologize to the American people" for having advocated it.

"What was once deemed an instrument of peace now appears to be an indirect means of aiding one side or the other in wars, declared or undeclared, if not an actual means of aggression," Van Zandt said.

"Stripped of flimsy camouflage and polite persiflage this neutrality legislation is nothing more than a method of choosing in advance the side on which the United States will fight in the next war, which persons in high places evidently believe may overtake us before autumn."

VETERANS OPPOSE WAR

The average World War veteran, Van Zandt said, is opposed to the United States engaged in another war

Fear Violence as Drivers Picket Fuel Plants in 'Lockout'

Danger of violence loomed in Boston's fuel delivery tie-up today, as union truck drivers and helpers took retaliatory steps against coal and oil firms alleged to have put into effect a "lockout" affecting 2800 workers.

First move of the idle drivers to hit back at employer companies was picketing of highway approaches to principal fuel yards, halting movement of tank trucks and coal trucks making wholesale deliveries to the companies.

Turning back of non-union trucks was accomplished without trouble in the beginning, but police anticipated disorder if the blockade continued.

CALLS CONFERENCE

Heaviest concentration of pickets was reported in Chelsea, near the Metropolitan Coal Company's yard there, and at Neponset bridge, between Dorchester and Quincy, southernmost boundary of today's tieup.

Police took a hand in the Chelsea situation, clearing union pickets off the highway and warning them of arrest if they attempted to halt trucks by blocking their path.

The pickets were told they could stand on sidewalk curbs and shout to passing trucks, then talk to drivers if the latter chose to stop. Union officials said this order was being obeyed and that sidewalk hails were 100 per cent effective in continuing the "blockade."

Meantime, virtually all coal and fuel oil deliveries in Boston and a score of adjacent communities were at a standstill.

General Charles H. Cole, head of the State Board of Arbitration and Conciliation, asked employers and union representatives to attend a State House conference at 2 p. m.

Pearl W. Covey, spokesman for the Boston Retail Fuel Institute, central organization of the fuel companies, said employers would join the conference.

FIRMS DENY "LOCKOUT"

Covey issued a statement on behalf of the employer firms, denying a "lockout" and asserting that deliveries were suspended only because union officials refused to furnish enough workers to meet orders.

The alleged "lockout" went into effect with notices posted in fuel yards and garages to inform employes there would be "no more work for anyone" until the situation should be settled.

Union spokesmen again emphasized their claim that wages are not the issue over which the present deadlock has resulted.

Real dispute with employers they asserted, is over the union's demand that annual wage and hour agreements terminate December 1 of each year instead of April 1, as in the past.

Husband's 'Hunch' Uncovers Death

Long distance telephone calls from St. Louis, Mo., today led police to the discovery of the three-day-old death of Mrs. Alice Bishop Bearce, 52, of Brookline, whose body was found in her swank Longwood avenue apartment.

Worried over his wife's well-being when an expected letter from her was only one day overdue, Chandler F. Bearce, traveling salesman for a Boston leather goods firm, repeatedly tried to call her from St. Louis, but without success.

According to Brookline police, Bearce's fears heightened by his inability to reach his wife, and he then telephoned his sister, Miss Leta Bishop of Beacon street, Brookline, who went to the Bearce apartment with officers and discovered Mrs. Bearce dead.

Sergeant Robert Maloney and Patrolmen Joseph Cavanaugh and Joseph Higgins forced their way into the suite to find the salesman's wife lying on the floor of her bedroom. She was clad in nightclothing, police said.

Dr. Thomas P. Kendrick, medical examiner, was notified and after an examination of the body he said Mrs. Bearce's death resulted from natural causes.

She died sometime Sunday, Dr. Kendrick estimated, probably only a few hours after talking with her husband, who had made an Easter phone call from St. Louis at noon.

Police said Bearce left three weeks ago on an extended business trip to Chicago, Minneapolis, Toledo and other midwest cities. It was the couple's custom to correspond daily by airmail, police said, and when Bearce received no letter Tuesday he immediately sensed something was wrong at home.

Informed of his wife's death, Bearce left St. Louis at once, going to Chicago by train.

From Chicago, he was reported to be flying to Boston. His plane was scheduled to arrive at East Boston airport today.

On New York witness stand in her separation suit asking alimony from Walter Donahue, brother of late Jack Donahue, Catherine Donahue, pretty brunette night club singer, admitted that she was being maintained by "a corporation" of brothers.

WIFE OF DANCING DONAHUE BARES INCOME SECRET

The Broadway battalions, accustomed as they are to the bizarre, had a new one to marvel over today in the declaration by Mrs. Catherine Donahue, wife of Charlestown's Walter L. Donahue, that she is supported by a corporation of three Hollywood brothers.

Beautiful Catherine, whose romance with Walter—of Charlestown's dancing Donahues—ended where most romances really are climaxed, at the altar, is seeking separate support.

Walter, whose most famous brother was the late Jack Donahue, former partners of Marilyn Miller, has a cross-complaint in New York's Supreme Court, asking divorce on the ground that Catherine was careless with her affections.

AIDED BY "BROTHERS"

Catherine, brunette night club singer and photographer's model who has just signed a Shubert contract at $200 a week, testified before Supreme Court Justice Julius Miller in Manhattan that the "corporation" of brothers which has been supporting her consists of three movie photographers.

This has been going on since November, 1936, she said and she named the philanthropic three as "the Bruno brothers," adding that "their corporation is known as 'Bruno of Hollywood.'"

The corporation, she said, has paid for her musical education.

It was admitted by the beauty, daughter of Pearl Regay who was former dancing partner of Rudolph Valentino, that after Walter married her in 1930 at Philadelphia City Hall he handed her the marriage certificate at the front door, said "Here's your diploma, baby," and danced away.

SEEN HUSBAND ONLY TWICE

There is a Walter, Jr., now 7 years old, but Donahue denies that he is the father.

The movie photographers' corporation was revealed when Catherine was asked the source of her income during the last two and a half years.

Under cross-examination she admitted that Anthony J. Bruno is "head of the corporation" but asserted that all three brothers contributed to her support.

Catherine was only 16 when the marriage took place, she testified, her parents having been divorced.

She said that since the marriage she had seen him—until the court action—only twice. He is now master of ceremonies in a Philadelphia night club at—according to the wife—$150 a week.

Plea Wins Convict Mercy

His good record of ten years as a "model citizen" of San Diego, Cal., won leniency in Dedham court today for a convict who escaped from Norfolk Prison colony in 1928.

The fugitive, Walter C. Bishop, 57, was finally traced to San Diego and arrested there January 9 of this year.

Arraigned in Norfolk Superior Court before Judge Frank J. Donahue, Bishop made a moving plea for mercy.

"I walked out of Norfolk on a sudden impulse," he said. "I'd heard my wife was going to divorce me. It broke me all up.

"Once free, I made my way out to the coast and went straight. I kept my nose clean and worked hard. I was employed as handyman and gardener for some of the best people in San Diego. I've got letters from them to prove it.

"I've got about three and a half years more to do of a five-year sentence for possession of burglars' tools. Let me serve that out, without any further penalty.

Judge Donahue said:

"I want to compliment this defendant on his record of the past ten years. I will grant this request and send him back to state prison without additional sentence."

Torrio Given 2 1-2 Years in Prison

NEW YORK, April 12 (AP)—John Torrio, former notorious Chicago underworld leader, was sentenced today to serve two and a half years in federal prison for income tax evasion. Judge John W. Clancy first sentenced Torrio to three years but reduced it by six months at the request of the U. S. attorney.

Torrio's counsel, Max D. Steuer, announced the $100,000 cash bail which Torrio posted when he was arrested in 1936 had been conceded to the government.

MOORE FIGHTS MOVE TO VOID HIS DIVORCE

Attorney B. Loring Young, counsel for Raymond Moore, Cape Cod playwright, announced today he would begin immediate investigation of the birth of a daughter to Mrs. Marianne Moore, 32, whom Moore divorced in February.

"I cannot discuss what action we intend to take until after that investigation," Young declared in commenting on Mrs. Moore's announcement in New York that she will seek to have the divorce decree won by her husband set aside on the strength of her newborn baby.

Mrs. Moore, who said she gave birth to the child last week, said she would seek to have the decree vacated before it becomes final next August.

"I'm practically destitute now," said the divorced wife of the wealthy proprietor of the Cape Playhouse, at Dennis, Mass., "but I'm going to fight to have the decree revoked so that my husband will have to support his child."

She said her attorney, George A. Cataldo, of Boston, had written her that he was going to reopen the divorce case.

"Raymond charged me with abusive treatment from May to August in 1938," she explained, "I denied that. My lawyer will now say that even if true, Raymond condoned such treatment by continuing marital relations with me.

"And little Michael Dennis should be proof enough of what I say."

The infant was born to the former nurse, who wed Moore in February, 1937, following a romance which began while he was a patient at a Hollywood hospital.

During trial of the divorce case Mrs. Moore professed to be in delicate health, but refused to verify her claim by submitting to examination by a physician.

WITNESSES VARY IN TESTIMONY AT KNOX DEATH TRIAL

Contradictions in testimony by state witnesses developed today as the Commonwealth's case in the trial of former State Trooper George T. Knox for the murder of Mrs. Helen Darragh Dale drew toward a close.

Assistant District Attorney Edward M. Sullivan said he hopes to complete his case against Knox either late today or early in tomorrow's session.

On the witness stand, Captain Francis M. Tiernan, who was in command of Back Bay station on May 22, 1937, when the pretty divorcee was fatally shot in Knox's Commonwealth avenue apartment, gave testimony at variance with that of a previous state witness.

DIFFER ON STORIES

Captain Tiernan testified that William E. Marland, then superintendent of the apartment block, did not aid in the search for the lethal gun in the apartment, as Marland had testified he did.

Not only that, said the police official, but he ordered Marland out of the apartment as soon as he, the captain, arrived.

Marland had testified that he and police officers got down on their hands and knees in the apartment to search for the gun.

Captain Tiernan, however, told the same story as that given by Sergeant William H. Long of his station—that Knox himself took the officers into a bedroom, pointed out the gun on a chair, under some clothing, and said he had taken it in there "so she couldn't use it again."

KNOX DENIED QUARREL

In his direct examination, Tiernan had told of questioning Knox immediately after the shooting. He said Knox denied there had been any quarrel between him and the divorcee and stated he had been asleep when the shot was fired.

Earlier, however, the state's star witness, Mrs. Edith Belcher, who wrote an unsigned note which reopened the investigation into Mrs. Dale's death, testified she heard quarreling voices in the Knox apartment just before a shot was fired.

She said one of those voices was that of Knox.

Mrs. Belcher stated she was in her apartment, opposite that of Knox, on May 22, 1937, when she heard the sound of an argument.

"Did you recognize either voice?" she was asked.

"The man's voice was that of Mr. Knox," she answered.

Q—Now tell the court what you heard. A—As I passed the door, I heard the man's voice and the woman's voice obviously quarreling. The female voice seemed to be arguing about money. She said: "I want you to give me my money. You said you would." I couldn't hear any male reply.

Q—What did you do then? A—I went into my apartment and stayed there until about 4 p. m.

ARGUED ON MONEY

Q—Did you hear the voices in suite 53 again? A—Yes, they kept on arguing, intermittently, still apparently about money.

Q—Directing your attention to 4 p. m., did anything occur then outside your apartment? A—The quarrel across the hall become more violent.

Q—Tell the judge and jury what you heard.

A—I heard the female voice say: "Let me out of here. You let me out of here." As she said this, she beat on the door of the apartment with her fists. That was what it sounded like. I refer to the hall door. I went to the door of my apartment and stood there listening. The man's voice said: "G—d—— you, you —— —— —— I'll fix you!"

Everything was silent for a minute. Then I heard the sound of a shot. And not a sound afterward.

She testified she wrote a letter to Municipal Court Judge Charles L. Carr, telling him what she heard in the apartment house on the night when Mrs. Dale was shot.

GOEBBELS IN EGYPT

INSTABUL, April 12 (AP)—The German propaganda minister, Paul Joseph Goebbels, arrived by plane today from Egypt for a two-day visit.

RUTH BAKER
Injured by Boy Slugger

'Mad' Boy Hunted in Girl Slugging

Superintendent of Police Edward W. Fallon today ordered that police patrols in the Washington street, Dorchester section, where an apparently crazed boy of 14 or 15 twice terrorized girl cleaning store clerks, be reinforced by 50 policemen.

Victim of the latest attack, Ruth Baker, 20, today was nursing a severe scalp wound at her home in Geneva avenue, Dorchester.

Last week, Miss Minna Freedman, of Columbia road, Dorchester, another clerk in the same Washington street cleaning store, was held up at the point of a toy pistol by a youth answering the description of Miss Bayer's assailant.

Miss Baker told police that the youth came into the store and asked about having neckties cleaned.

When she bent down, she said, to make out a receipt she was struck over the head by a hammer. The boy, frightened by her screams, ran from the store.

SCALDED IN KITCHEN

BROCKTON, April 12 — Arthur W. Stevenson, 58, of North Warren avenue, was severely burned here when the cover of a steam pressure cooker was blown off in the kitchen of his home.

SURVIVORS OF G. A. R. STILL ALL-AMERICAN

Civil War associations—the G. A. R., and their sons and daughters—today were urged by National Commander William L. Anderson of the Sons of Union Veterans to present a united front against dictators, "loud-voiced" minority groups and all "isms."

Commander Anderson declared many places in America, especially the mid-western states, are strongholds of Fascism and Communism. He enlisted all friends of the Grand Army of the Republic in an unending war against the forces threatening Democracy.

His plea came on closing day of a two-day convention of the G. A. R., Sons of Union Veterans and Daughters of Union Veterans at Hotel Bradford.

ONLY 14 ATTEND

There were but 14 of the men in blue able to attend this year's encampment. For their state commander they chose Charles A. Miles of Stoughton, who ran away from shoeing horses in Boston to join the Union army at the age of 15.

The encampment was the 73rd in Massachusetts, which now has but 81 survivors of the 159,165 who answered the colors in this state in the Civil War.

Miles presided in place of Joseph F. Stoddard, retiring commander, who is ill at Chelsea Soldiers' Home. The latter sent greetings, urging his comrades to "carry on until the last man."

The swift approach of the Grim Reaper to all the old comrades, the youngest of whom was 91, was the theme of the invocation of Chaplain George E. Biddle, 94, a Negro veteran, wounded during the war, who was re-elected chaplain.

Other officers chosen were H. S. Faunce, Randolph, senior vice-comdr.; William F. Dodge, Lynn, junior vice-comdr., and George W. Green, Jamaica Plain, adj.-gen.

ADVISES CHEERFULNESS

Comander Miles declared today that the important thing in life is to be cheerful.

"Don't be a grouch," he said.

Asked about another World War, he said:

"One war's enough—I don't want another."

The new commander said he took a few drinks up until the time he was 16 years. Then he quit and has been a "high and dry" ever since.

Asked what he would like most of all, he said:

"Give me a million dollars. I'd travel all over the world and see a lot of things I've missed."

Former Ely Aide Given ABC Post

Governor Saltonstall today named Attorney Dudley B. Wallace of Springfield, Republican, as a member of the State Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission.

This latest nominee in the Saltonstall purge of Democratic office holders will succeed William C. Hayes, Springfield Democrat, who was appointed in 1933 by Governor Ely, in whose Springfield office Wallace once practiced.

The post of commissioner pays $7000 a year, but if Wallace is confirmed next week by the executive council it is expected he will be designated chairman of the commission at $7500 a year.

PRACTICED HERE

The term of Hayes, who had served as chairman of the board since its inception in 1933, expired last Friday.

He had been reappointed in 1936 by Governor Curley.

Wallace's term, if he is confirmed, likewise will be three years.

The appointee is 38 years old and for five years practiced law in Boston before his connection with former Governor Ely's law office in Springfield.

Wallace served as city solicitor of Springfield under Mayor Henry Martens, and last fall made a sensational and barely-losing fight for district attorney there against the Democratic political veteran, Thomas F. Moriarty. The margin was only a few hundred votes.

PUTNAM CONFIRMED

Last January, Wallace was married to Miss Sara Nelly of Baltimore.

The council confirmed last week's appointments of F. Delano Putnam as presiding justice of the Boston Municipal court, George E. O'Toole of Clinton as presiding justice of the Clinton district court and J. F. Spiegel of Boston as special justice of the Boston Municipal court, to fill the place left vacant by promotion of Judge Putnam.

Brookline Woman Gets Welfare Berth

Miss Marion Joyce of Longwood avenue, Brookline, a social worker with several years' experience in federal government relief work, was appointed director of the division of child guardianship today by Public Welfare Commissioner David Armstrong, with the approval of Governor Saltonstall.

If confirmed by the executive council she will succeed Winifred A. Keneran, who retired after 13 years' service. Miss Joyce will receive a salary of $4020 with $240 annual increases up to a maximum of $4590.

The division controls the destinies of thousands of state wards.

A native of California, Miss Joyce received a bachelor of arts degree from Radcliffe in 1922 and later a master of arts degree from Columbia.

'Repeat' Gem Breaks Charged to Parolee

Emil Smolinsky, 32, of Second street, Chelsea, a parolee from State Prison, was held in $10,000 bail for the grand jury in municipal court today when he waived examination on charges of twice breaking and entering a Winter street jewelry shop. The shop was the one he had previously ben found guilty of entering and for which break he had been sent to prison.

Police charged before Judge John Duff that Smolinsky had stolen on March 19 and again on March 17 watches valued t total of $1400.

Gain in Building Permits for Month

An 88 per cent increase in value over the previous month of applications for building permits filed during March in 55 Massachusetts communities was reported today by the Massachusetts department of labor and industries.

A 23 per cent decrease, however, was reported when comparison was made with applications of March, 1938.

Publication of state employes' salaries every two years was demanded today by Rep. Nathan Rosenfeld of Milford to "purge the pyrolls of sinecures."

Wagner Act Fight Spreads to House

WASHINGTON, April 12 (INS)—The battle for revision of the Wagner Labor Relations Act spread to both branches of Congress today when the House labor committee voted to hold hearings on amendments to the act.

The House committee's action was taken on motion of Rep. Ramspeck (D.) of Georgia. The hearing will be on the Barden bill, sponsored by the American Federation of Labor, and other measures seeking changes in the act.

MURDERED?—Mt. Morris, N. Y., authorities today investigated possibility that Lois P. Tryon, 19, was thrown under wheels of train to conceal evidence of attack.

Crush Dope Ring In Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, April 12 (AP)—The federal government today smashed a narcotic ring with coast-to-coast ramifications, radiating out of Kansas City, where, a government official said, the narcotic situation is "unbelievable."

H. J. Anslinger, U. S. Commissioner of narcotics who led the roundup announced arrests of 13 suspects in Kansas City, New York, Oklahoma and Missouri.

Among them was a uniformed patrolman of the Kansas City police department, whose control by the Boss Tom Pendergast Democratic organization is now under fire.

Anslinger estimated 500,000 grains or 1,000,000 doses of narcotics were seized in the raids.

Boy Missing, Violence Seen

LOS ANGELES, April 12 (AP)—Discovery of two blood-stained shirts in a vacant lot today spurred a search for Ralph Ryan, 6, who police were informed disappeared on his way to school yesterday morning.

Mark Ryan, an employe of the city bureau of power and light, told officers his son returned home several days ago with two pennies he said had been given him by a strange man. He was admonished not to accept gifts from strangers.

ATTORNEY, 70, FACES ARREST

Attorney Arthur F. Clarke of Brookline was given until 9:30 a.m. tomorrow to appear in probate court after he had failed to arrive there today and answer a petition requesting that he be cited in contempt.

Failure to appear tomorrow, Judge William M. Prest announced, will result in issuance of a capias for the arrest of the 70-year-old lawyer.

Last May, Clarke was ordered by Judge Prest to return disallowed items totaling $101,135.13 to the estate of the late Josiah H. Benton of Boston, who left large sums for the benefit of the Boston Public Library and Trinity Church.

These items included $76,844.26 charged by Clarke for his services as trustee of the estate.

Recently Corporation Counsel Henry Parkman, Jr., filed a petition declaring Clarke had failed to repay the $101,135.13 to the estate and asking that he be cited in contempt of court.

Parkman and Attorney Andrew Marshall, counsel for Trinity Church, appeared in court today, but Clarke was absent and could not be reached by telephone.

Wong Tin's father is Wong Wing, an American citizen, of Forest Hills, L. I., Attorney John W. Schenck told the U. S. circuit court of appeals.

Schenck appeared for Wong Tin in habeas corpus proceedings.

"This boy, literally, hasn't been given a Chinaman's chance by immigration authorities," Schenck said. "But science, through a blood test, will prove his cleam to being the son of a United States citizen."

Famous Scot Train on Show

Thousands of persons crowded Worcester station today for a last look at the Coronation Scot—Great Britain's luxury streamlined train—before it speeded on for a two-day inspection at South Station.

Plans called for the British pride to be on display here from 3 to 6 p. m. this afternoon and again tomorrow morning, from 8 a. m. until noon, when it leaves for Providence.

The 389 tons of engine and coaches is one of the major exhibits of the New York World's Fair and will be exhibited in 14 states before the opening day of New York's big summer event.

Claim Insanity To Halt Execution

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 12 (INS)—A belated insanity defense was entered today before the State Pardon Board in an effort to stop the execution Friday of Elvin Wood, Morris, Ill., farmer who confessed murdering his friend, Abner Nelson, in a fantastic extortion plot.

Attorney A. E. Viner read depositions from relatives and neighbors of Wood. State's Attorney S. P. Holderman, a friend of both Wood and the slain man, opposed the plea.

Deadly Rat

ATLANTA, April 12 (AP)—A huge rat, startled when Mrs. Minnie Martin passed on the sidewalk, leaped and became entangled in her clothing.

Horrified, Mrs. Martin rushed into the street, in the path of a motor car. Both Mrs. Martin and the rat were killed.

VALUES FOR YOU, FAMILY AND HOME!

A MAID'S $10,000 REVENGE

If . . . . . !

That little word spelled today the difference between nothing and $10,000 for a German maid.

It spelled tragedy for a judge and his wife, not to mention $2500.

It spelled $5000 and five long years for a man.

And it spelled $35,000 for one nationally-known comedian and $50,000 for another nationally-known comic—as well as adverse publicity they probably will be a long time in living down.

PANNING COSTLY

If . . . . . !

If only the diners in the home of Supreme Court Justice and Mrs. Edgar Lauer of New York, last October 21, hadn't put Hitler on the conversational pan.

If Rose Weber, the Lauer maid

ROSE WEBER
$10,000 Reward Hers

and a fervent fraulein, who liked Hitler, hadn't overheard and rebuked the diners.

And if Justice Lauer hadn't been so shortsighted as to fire Fraulein Weber.

Well, Fraulein Weber, who was "sehr argerlich" over all this and who had shouted, as she was being given the old heave-o, "I'll get even with you all for this," dashed down to the customs officers in New York and—as the boys say—sang plenty.

$10,000 SONG

It was a song of smuggling and of the costly smuggled goods that found their way to Mrs. Lauer's closets and chests.

From the ire of the German maid the investigation was launched—and today she stands to become $10,000 richer from the government as her share of penalties imposed upon Mrs. Lauer, Georgia Burns, Jack Benny and Albert N. Chapereau.

Jobless Benefits Down in March

During March, payments of benefits to unemployed dropped $1036 a day over February, it was reported today by Director J. Edwin Doyle of the Unemployment Compensation Division.

12 MILLION MEN READY TO MARCH

By W. W. CHAPLIN

Copyright, 1939, by International News Service

NEW YORK, April 12—Twelve million men are under arms in Europe, ready to march at the first bugle call to war, and that number could be raised to 48 millions within a week without calling a single raw recruit to the colors, a survey disclosed today.

These figures were compiled from official information available here and from private cable advices of news correspondents in the various capitals most closely involved in the present crisis.

They show that within a few days of the outbreak of a general European war six million more trained fighting men would be in the field than all the allied nations mobilized at home and abroad during the entire World War.

There would be 25 million more than the Central Powers mobilized in the World War.

MANY MISSED FIGHTING

The number of men mobilized by both sides in the World War was 65 million. But that included millions in America, Japan, Russia and the British colonies which didn't ever see service on the battlefields.

It would seem a fair estimate that there are now as many men in Europe either actually under arms or trained and ready for momentary call as were engaged in the war in Europe in 1914-18.

The numerically greatest army in Europe is in Russia, the unknown quantity of the present crisis. There is a standing army there of 1,500,000 and with trained reserves the number is 18,000,000.

After Russia comes a group of five nations known to have at least a million men each under arms. They are Germany, Italy, Poland, France and Spain. Yugoslavia, which had a standing army of 165,000 and a trained reserve of 1,650,000, is generally believed to have called enough reserves to the colors because of the present crisis to bring its total above a million, but accurate information is lacking.

HUGE "MINOR" FORCES

Rumania may also have added enough of her million and a half reserves to the standing army of 210,000 to have passed the million mark.

After that there is a sharp drop to countries like Bulgaria with a regular and reserve army of 700,000, Hungary with 700,000, Belgium 670,000, Turkey 650,000, Greece 580,000, England 575,000 and Holland 200,000.

Of the countries not so immediately involved, but many of whom would probably also be drawn into any general conflict, Sweden has a trained fighting force of 625,000, Switzerland 450,000, Portugal 460,000. Remaining countries are all under 300,000, declining to 100,000 in Denmark.

There are only four countries which total their trained regulars and reserves above two million. They are Russia with its 18,000,000, Italy 7,400,000, France 6,000,000, and Germany 3,900,000.

British Rulers Still Plan for U. S. Visit in May

LONDON, April 12 (AP)—A Buckingham Palace official said today that no changes had been made or were immediately contemplated in the present plans for the visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth to the United States and Canada next month.

At Windsor today the king and queen and their small daughters took part in air raid practice so they would know how to act if bombs start dropping in a war.

The king and queen, Princesses Margaret Rose and Elizabeth, and the Duke and Duchess of Kent dashed to a bomb-proof shelter in a dungeon beneath one of the Windsor Castle towers when the mock raid warning was sounded.

Swanson Plans Fleet Review

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP)—The Navy announced today the main body of the fleet would parade before Secretary Swanson April 27 off the Virginia capes, in the first such review in the Atlantic in five years.

About 70 war craft, leaving the Hampton Roads-Yorktown area for the New York World's Fair, will steam past the Naval Secretary and other Cabinet members in a column more than 16 miles long.

Leading the column will be the battleship Pennsylvania, flagship of Admiral Claude C. Bloch, commander-in-chief of the fleet. Seven other battleships, 4 aircraft carriers, 11 light cruisers, 5 heavy cruisers, 36 destroyers, and lesser vessels will follow.

Italy's Pledges Satisfy Greece

ROME, April 12 (AP)—Greece informed Italy of "full satisfaction" over Fascist guarantees of Grecian sea and land frontiers in a note to the foreign ministry today.

The note hailed a "new period of cordiality" in Italian-Greek relations, even as foreign diplomats expressed concern over the Italian purpose in putting Italy on a virtual wartime basis.

Poland Issues Plan For 'War' Farm Aid

WARSAW, April 12 (AP)—The ministries of agriculture, finance and war today published regulations under which farmers would be compelled to help each other to work the land during war and calamities.

The regulations would force certain peasants to remain on their farms and care for the properties of others who would be mobilized.

A number of reservists of the 1912-1917 classes were summoned for immediate military duty last night. The Polish army, with regulars and reserves, totals more than 1,000,000 men.

Quoddy Proposal Postponed a Week

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP)—The House today postponed until next week or later consideration of a revival of the huge Passamaquoddy, Me., tidal harnessing project.

ALBANIA OFFERS THRONE TO ITALY

TIRANA, April 12 (AP)—The Albanian national assembly today offered crown of this Adriatic kingdom to King Vittorio Emanuele of Italy for "a personal union" of the two nations.

The assembly, which was convoked to set up a regime under the Italian military occupation of Albania, adopted a four-point program providing for a new organization of the country.

The points were:

FOUR-POINT PROGRAM

1—The former regime of King Zog I, has fallen and its constitution is abrogated.

2—The new government is to be named by the assembly.

3—Albania and Italy are to be "associated more intimately."

4—The crown is offered to Vittorio Emanuele "for His Majesty and for his loyal descendants."

Italian troops occupied points at ders today as the assembly met to form a new government under Fascist rule.

One detachment in trucks reached the Yugoslav frontier at Koplik, north of the Albanian Adriatic port, Scutari.

CIANO ARRIVES

Foreign Minister Count Ciano flew to Tirana to represent his father-in-law, Premier Mussolini, at the assembly.

Ciano reviewed Italian troops drawn up at the airport and then drove to the Italian legation through streets draped with the Italian tricolor. There he received the homage of heads of the Catholic, Moslem and Greek Orthodox religions in Albania.

Italian military operations which started only five days ago with swift invasion of the small Adriatic kingdom were reported virtually ended after Fascist troops planted the Italian tricolor on the Albanian-Greek border at Biklishta.

CAROL TO VISIT PAUL

BUCHREST, April 12 (AP)—Circles close to the court said today that King Carol plans to visit Prince Paul, regent of Yugoslavia, within a few days.

Britain Will Pledge Aid to Greeks, Turks

LONDON, April 12 (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain is expected to announce broad guarantees to Greece and Turkey to Parliament tomorrow, advancing another step the British-French program to halt aggression that was begun after Germany broke up Czechoslovakia last month.

The declaration which Chamberlain is to read in Commons is expected to state that any act of aggression in the eastern Mediterranean would be considered an "unfriendly act."

Political informants said that Chamberlain, meanwhile, was prepared to accept promises attributed to Premier Mussolini that, now that Italy has occupied Albania, he is willing henceforth to preserve present Mediterranean territorial alignments.

PACT TO STAND

As a consequence of these promises, Chamberlain is expected to condemn the Italian invasion of Albania, but not to denounce the Anglo-Italian friendship pact concluded last year—as some sections of British opinion suggested.

The Italian government yesterday announced a note of assurance to Greece to respect Grecian integrity and independence. The Greek government replied today that the guarantees gave "full satisfaction."

The Turkish ambassador called at the foreign office this morning, and it was reported he expressed a willingness to accept any guarantee Britain was prepared to make.

It was understood that Greece—despite the exchange with Mussolini—was willing also to accept a British pledge.

ARMIES GROW

Poland—bolstered by a tentative mutual aid accord with Britain—France, Italy and other European nations meanwhile called up reserves to build their armies to the strongest peak since the World War.

The British Mediterranean fleet kept watch at Malta, and the French Mediterreanean fleet, having left its Toulon base, was on a secret cruise.

The British admiralty estimated there were "around 120" British warships of all types in the Mediterranean, 30 of these being minor small craft.

This armada includes four battleships, one aircraft carrier and six large cruisers, in addition to destroyers, submarines and other small vessels.

Authoritative Paris sources estimated that the French Mediterranean fleet on active duty numbered about 40 vessels. For Mediterranean maneuvers in February the French navy massed 44 warships at Bizerte, France's North African naval base.

Nazis in Bitter Attack on F. D.

acterize Mr. Roosevelt in the same choice of words he uses in his constant war prophecies.

"But it is obvious to us that Roosevelt is rushing with open arms into the British scheme of encirclement. 'Tis slogan is war agitation, but we must characterize it as an insolent blunder and impudence if the head of a state dares to continue carrying on his war-mongering in such a direct form."

CITES "SON'S LINK"

"What do you really think, Mr. Roosevelt? For what reason do you present war as so definite in such an internationally careless and dangerous manner?

"We know that your son is closely linked with the armament industry in the United States. We know that it is upon your initiative that negotiations are pending with South American countries for exchange of raw materials which will give impetus to your armament industry.

"We also know that your entire domestic political plan has proved an unfortunate failure."

Der Angriff ended up with the declaration that President Roosevelt has become "one of the most unpopular men in America."

Hitler to 'Put Off' New Provocations

BERLIN, April 12 (AP)—Adolf Hitler's Voelkischer Beobachter ridiculed Great Britain and France for "panic mongering out of weakness" today while an informed Nazi source represented the Fuehrer as determined to do nothing in the next few months to provoke the two countries to armed intervention.

Hitler's newspaper pictured the two western European democracies as using "brutality" in getting Greece to side with the Allied powers during the World War.

The Beobachter laughed off England's and France's alleged threats of counter measures against the axis in the Mediterranean as "time-worn tricks."

French, British Fleets Sail

hour the premier would issue the statement.

Sources close to the government, however, underscored it as "exceptionally important" and emphasized that it would be made the same day as Prime Minister Chamberlain's statement to the House of Commons on British policy.

Members of the cabinet left the two and one-half hour session with President Lebrun looking grave and worried. Daladier hurried to the war ministry.

Aside from adopting decrees "made necessary by the international situation" to reinforce the army and navy, the cabinet devoted most of its session to an explanation of the foreign situation by Bonnet, particularly as it applied to the declaration Daladier would make.

Sources close to the government indicated that it was unlikely that any of the military measures approved this morning would be made public. Many of them already have been put into effect.

It was assumed the French naval movements were in complete co-operation at least with British units concentrating at Britain's fortified Malta base, 90 miles south of Italy's Sicily and within quick cruising range of the Greek Island of Corfu.

SHAKEUP FOR STATE POLICE

As many as 100 uniform members of the Massachusetts state police may be shifted in a forthcoming shakeup of the department, it was reported today.

Forerunner of the shakeup was the announcement that George Skinner, supervising motor mechanic of the department, had been demoted to chief motor mechanic and shifted from Commonwealth Pier to the Framingham barracks.

Likewise made public was the demotion of Kenneth T. Williamson, chief mechanic at Troop D, West Bridgewater, to mechanic, and his replacement by William Lambert, now a mechanic at the Framingham barracks.

Sales Tax Hit By Bloomfield

Real purpose of the proposed sales tax is to hide the fact that the "government generally in this Commonwealth has been wasteful and extravagant," Daniel Bloomfield, manager of the Retail Trade Board, declared today in an address before the Massachusetts Women's Republican Club committee at their Beacon street headquarters.

Terming the proposal an "alibi tax," he said that "present conditions are an indictment of the politicians who now clamor for new sources of revenue."

"Certain groups want to shift the burden from real estate to the masses of people to make them tax conscious," he declared. The people in this Commonwealth, most of them with small incomes, have had to get along on tightened family budgets.

"Now, increased tax rates are waved in the faces of the people to scare them into the sales tax. The cry for new revenue hides a multitude of political sins."

May Robson at 75 To Have Big Party

HOLLYWOOD, April 12 (AP)—May Robson, who will be 75 years old next Wednesday, will be given an "all-industry" birthday party by her employer, Jack Warner, on that day.

May said today:

"It's just another birthday. I expect to be acting when I'm a hundred."

Doggone Good Yarn!

POCATELLO, Ida., April 12 (AP)—When a woman living several blocks away telephoned Mrs. Clara Wood that the Wood police dog was romping in her yard, Mrs. Wood told her to put the dog's ear to the telephone.

"Ted," she commanded, "you come right home."

Within two minutes, she said, Ted was back home.

The Trouble in a Nutshell

STAGE SET BY PARDON PROBERS

The stage was set today for complete investigation of the pardons granted Raymond Patriarca, honeymooning Providence gunman, and John Tartar, South End sweet-heart slayer, after a right-about face in the ranks of a legislative committee.

Rapid-fire tactics behind the scenes won a majority ways and means committee report favoring complete investigation of all pardons and paroles granted in recent years after an earlier statement that the committee planned to report the measure.

The resolve for the investigation was introduced last week by the house administrative committee was before ways and means of the committee in view of [illegible] a recent special message favoring an appropriation for the inquiry.

Members of the house ways and means committee who [illegible] Speaker Leverett Saltonstall Arthur Peckham of Worcester, chairman of the committee, were announced that he had polled 10 committee members informally and found them opposed to the proposal. He said he was unable to contact the other five.

IN FOR FIGHT

"I am very much surprised," Speaker Christian Herter declared when informed of Peckham's statement.

Speaker Herter then summoned 10 House members of the committee for individual conferences.

The result was an announcement that nine members of the committee favored the appropriation for the investigation, three were opposed and three reserved their rights.

CARDINAL O'CONNELL AIDS FATHER FINN MEMORIAL FUND

MASSACHUSETTS motorists will pay nine million dollars MORE for licenses and registrations if the proposal of Representative Francis X. Coyne of Dorchester is accepted by his colleagues.

The measure, according to the present plan, would be disastrous to motorists, but it is an effort to reduce tax rates.

Five minutes of thought ought to convince Mr. Coyne that politicians are capable of spending millions in excess of their proper share of the cost of government.

The best way to remember that automobile owners are taxed enough already and that transferring a burden from one back to another back benefits nobody, is to remember what Publius Syrus, Paul was wrong twenty centuries ago.

"THANK YOUR GROCER," says Mr. Carl Kullgren, president of the grocery industry's "Parade of Progress." He explains:

"It used to be fairly sensible for embattled menfolk to tell the women, 'A woman's place is where you belong.' Housekeeping was a full-time job. Now, because of the leisure that modern canned and packaged foods have made possible, the woman's answer is: 'What could I do with the rest of the time?'"

Recently I was a guest of a woman's club and heard a speaker reveal Grandma's daily program. She arose before the birds. She kindled the fire. She cooked everything the family ate. She baked bread. She washed and ironed. It is even possible that she killed the chicken served at dinner.

Grandma never had time to mix in politics, attend matinees, enjoy afternoon bridge or worry about what to do with her time. And you don't have to be a genius to figure why.

It was not CHANCE that ended pantry bondage and placed freedom and leisure in feminine hands. It was the CAN-OPENER.

THE BOYS OF '61 rally again, and you cannot escape the feeling that you are witnessing the close of an important chapter in American history.

"RED RIDING HOOD" seems to have abandoned the nursery and become a source of fable for the Communist Party.

You remember that the wolf in the fairy tale put on Granny's nightgown and cap to fool the child.

According to Former Senator Sybil Holmes of Brookline, leading witness before the Beacon Hill Committee on Legal Affairs, the disciples of Stalin adopt the same tactics.

They garb themselves in the robes of Democracy and so effectively disguise themselves that "ministers of the gospel, social leaders and [illegible] are 'front men' for them."

These are the FACTS the Legislature ought to have and ought to do something about.

You remember the fairy tale wolf eventually cast aside Granny's garments and devoured the child.

You [illegible] Democracy may suffer a similar fate.

Lullaby in Europe

HEART of my heart, be still, be still . . . for the thunder song in the sky . . . and the siren's terror, crying shrill . . . are only a lullaby . . . Heart of my heart, lie close, lie close . . . for the flames' red leap in the west . . . is only the sunset's dew for the rose . . . Rest, my little one, rest.

Heart of my heart, lie close to my heart . . . for mine are the arms of love . . . Why do you tremble, why do you start . . . at the thunder song above?

Child of my man, lie close to my breast . . . Man of my man, with his blue eyes blessed . . . Heart of me, life of me, quiet your fears . . . Rest, my little one, sleep, my little one . . . Sleep for a thousand years.

STONE MAY REPLACE JACK BENNY

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK April 12—1 A. M.: "Jack Benny's radio program," a radio executive declares at the Tavern, "will be replaced by 'The Aldrich Family,' featuring Ezra Stone, during the summer." . . . "Bill Robinson decided it would be best not to attend Marian Anderson's concert in Washington," Marty Forkins, Robinson's manager confides at the Cotton Club. "He thought he might otherwise be criticized for detracting from Miss Anderson's glory." . . . "Look at the bill of sale," Begey Fretless, the Peanut King, exhibits at Monte Carlo. "Pat Honeychil' Wilder sailed for South America yesterday, and sold me her 1937 coupe—for $1."

2 A. M.: "I just heard those Russian phrases in your Moscow Art nature," a lady tells Jean Hersholt at the Rainbow Room. "You said, in Russian: 'Here is the cowardly assassin' and 'Here is the beloved hero.'" . . . "Really?" replies the surprised Hersholt. "They're phrases I learned for my role in 'Clear All Wires.' But how did you know them?" . . . "You see," the lady informs, "I'm Chaliapin's daughter, Dasya Chaliapin." . . . "On May 3," an NBC official announces, "Beatrice Lillie will make her debut on the National Broadcasting Company's television station. The show will televise its first show."

4 A. M.: "Hey, Lou, you're the boy for Walter Winchell," a Stork Club habitue calls to the famous columnist, who is covering the place with Mike Lyman. "Here, take this harpun," Winchell retorts. "The safety catch is so complicated it gives me claustrophobia. . . . "You'd give me your shirt, wouldn't you?" Lou asks. "If I had a shirt," Winchell answers, "I'd give you my dress."

4 A. M.: "John Dillinger's father and three of the Hauptmann jurors still can't get permission to appear at a World's Fair exhibit," a concessionaire reports at the 18 Club. "They complain that the message they have to bring—that crime doesn't pay—is as moral as the Nude Shows which will be presented at the Fair." . . . "It's Jay Allen's story," a bar standee relates at Bert Frohman's, "about the big elephant who roared at the little timid mouse: 'You're certainly an insignificant looking creature.' And the mouse answered: 'Well, I've been sick.'"

5 A. M.: "And I've rented this small house on Gracie Square, facing the East River," Moss Hart tells Oscar Levant at Lindy's. "The way the world's going, I never wanna, I wouldn't go anywhere near a river for the next two years." . . . "Secretary Henry Morgenthau is looking for two business men for the jobs of Assistant Secretary of the Treasury," a broker states at Reuben's.

MIMI BLAKE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Blake of Dedham, who will make her debut with next season's crop of debs.

THEY SAY YOU SHOULDN'T count chickens before they're hatched . . . yet counting society buds before they blossom is a favorite social pastime . . .

About this time every year, when the activities of the season's debutantes slow down to a standstill, everyone begins to think about the next year's debs, who will start the first spinnings of the social wheel in June . . .

Among those who will emerge from the comparative seclusion of their family circles into the public eye for a year of partying and dancing is Mimi Blake, the petite, dark-haired daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Blake of Dedham . . . Mimi, who signs her automobile license and other formal documents by her full name, Mary Alice, has a vivacious, friendly manner sure to make a hit with the stag line . . . and if she inherits the same talent for acting which put her sisters, Harriet and Leslie, into the front ranks of Vincent Club entertainers, she will be a candidate for a starring role in next year's Vincent Show . . .

Another Social Bow

Betsey Jenney, who will also make her social bow next year, is a talented figure skater and an expert sailor, too . . . she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Jenney of Brookline, who accompanied her to Sea Island, Georgia, for her Easter vacation . . .

Nancy Eliot, Mary Coolidge, Christina Lowell and Margaret Fay all have older sisters who have recently made their debuts and can give them a bit of expert advice on "the scene" . . . If Betsy Nelson is as attractive as her sister Gail, who came out two years ago winter, she'll have plenty of Harvard men at her beck and call . . .

Cynthia Burrage, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Burrage Jr., will have the latest news on the London situation when she returns home from school in Paris the end of April . . . Cynthia's name will be on the new list this year, and next winter she will be on hand to benefit by her Grandmother Burrage's famous box holiday . . . Mrs. Burrage entertained Cynthia for Christmas with her Nanny, and their cousin, Betsy Cunningham, who came over during the past season . . .

Overtake Late Spring

So many Bostonians have tired of waiting for Spring to return to its proverbial corner that the hotel registers of Southern resorts will read like the pages of the Hub's social register . . . Horseback riding, tennis and golf provide a full program for those exercising Florida sunshine . . . Mr. and Mrs. Moseleys, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Keyes who are among the vacationers at Hot Springs . . . were fellow passengers on a recent sailing for Bermuda were Mrs. Walter Wyeth, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rice, Mrs. John Bradley and Mrs. Henry Wheeler . . .

The same cause has the opposite effect on those who are staying at home . . . for the continued cold weather has been an added incentive for them to do a little wishful thinking in regard to spring . . . and they find it helps a bit to lay some definite summer plans . . .

Choose Summer Homes

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Ames, Jr., have been enjoying the popular spring pastime of house hunting on the North Shore and after several tours of the shore's winding and picturesque roads have chosen a seaside cottage in Manchester for their summer headquarters . . . Last year they frequently visited in Manchester at the sprawling Beach estate of Mr. Ames' aunt, Mrs. Louis A. Frothingham . . .

The Manchester house which Mrs. Benjamin W. Holbrook of Milton has taken for the summer will be the scene of many lively gatherings of young people . . . for her debutante daughter, Joan Curtis, and her son, Nelson Curtis, 3rd, a student at Harvard, will spend the summer there with her . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Bacon and their youngsters will again occupy the Caner estate, overlooking Graves Beach, Manchester . . . while in the adjoining colony at Beverly Cove the Misses Amy and Clara Curtis will receive their friends at the home they have taken on Boyle street . . . The Misses Curtis will come over, as usual, from their winter villa on the French Riviera to spend the summer in New England . . .

Phyllis Cunningham of Belmont and Gilbert deMilliano of Chicago arrive at the Boston Academy of Notre Dame Easter hop, given at the Hotel Sheraton.

Dinner Parties Herald Dance

A number of dinner parties are being held in honor of the Sacred Heart Spring Dance, which graduates and debutantes of the Park Street convent will attend at the Parker House Friday evening, April 28.

A group of those who are entertained by Miss Mary A. Ryan at the Hotel Bellevue before going to the Sacred Heart Spring Dance with Miss Louise Walsh and Miss Ida Nason will also be hostesses at dinners at their respective homes. Miss Joyce Ann Ryan gave a dinner party preceding the ball by Mr. and Mrs. William Morrissey Bennett.

Among those who are planning dinners preceding the dance are Miss Mary [illegible] Mrs. Francis W. Hennessey and Mrs. Edward Jackson Hennessey, Mrs. Joel Goldthwaite and Mrs. Holmes French.

Others who have made reservations for the evening are Miss Gino Perera, Mr. Ferd Arterin, Miss Anne Ambrose, Mrs. Jerry W. Regis Night at Pops May 6 To Aid Scholarship Fund

At delightful informal meetings and teas at members' homes plans are going forward at a rapid pace to make the Regis Night at the Pops on May 6 a most successful affair for the scholarship fund.

Both the Guild, under the direction of Mrs. Edward J. Rhatigan, president, and the alumnae, under the chairmanship of Mary Behlon, are co-operating in staging the affair.

Chairman of the alumnae's reservation committee, Miriam Cunningham, is assisted by Generosa Hagan, Elizabeth Donovan, Phyllis O'Brien, Margaret O'Connell, Ethel Jarvis, Mary Foley, Anna Connors and Mary Boyle.

Former guild president, Mrs. Joseph V. Carroll of Belmont, is in charge of tickets for the guild. Further plans for the gala evening will be discussed at the alumnae's meeting and tea Sunday afternoon at the college.

Mrs. Edmund J. M. Greenery of Cambridge will preside.

Notre Dame Spring Hop

The king and queen of Easter balloons were crowned, young society and their escorts had a gay time of it prancing and waltzing and a goodly sum was realized for the scholarship fund at the benefit Notre Dame Academy spring hop last night at the Hotel Sheraton.

Helen Noonan of Brighton was queen of the Easter egg, and she looked the part in her bridal gown of white tipped lace over deep beige satin frock, which was an exact model for her long bridal gown. Assisting her was Agnes Tooley, who carried the evening's fun in favor of Scottish Relief, the beneficiary of all proceeds at the benefit party.

Judging from last evening's mad, happy rush and push to get the favors as the balloons burst, Nancy Spreader's flock of [illegible] was the favorite of the evening. The queen's gown was worn by Helen Cunningham, who was attended by Gilbert deMilliano of Chicago.

Hosts are still in vogue with Loretta Logue affecting one of yesterday's with a slightly startling headdress, a mantilla of black lace. Garlands of gardenias and black velvet gloves were Marion Creedon's choice of accessories with her black velvet.

Pretty Lillian Ryan a white net was bedecked in silver lame. Mary Bannan of Waltham topped her peach taffeta with a bolero of bunny fur, while Margaret McCarthy's white net was trimmed with yards of dainty lace ruching.

Patricia Gormley's black crepe was banded with pink ribbons. Helen Neal's peacock crepe was topped with silver lame, while Frances O'Neill's crisp black and white linen was worn with a cluster of pink roses.

CATHOLIC GUILD MEETS TOMORROW

Rt. Rev. Mgsr. Richard J. Cushing will be guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the Dorchester Catholic Guild tomorrow afternoon in Whiton Hall.

Mrs. Mary Knight will speak on current events. The forthcoming Congress of Catholic Women, being held next week, will be discussed by Elizabeth Corr.

St. Joseph Grads Give Hair Style Show Tonight

With pretty graduates of Mt. St. Joseph's Academy serving as models, the alumnae will stage a unique hair style show and bridge this evening at the academy auditorium in Brighton.

The various types of headdress will be staged in appropriate setting with Victorian scenes, sports tableau and mother and daughter portraits being enacted by attractive members of the organization.

Serving as chairman of the novel party is Mrs. John Morrison of Brighton, assisted by a group of active members, Miriam Sullivan, Mary Rourke, Kay Costello, Ruth Sheehan, Helen Dillon and Margaret McKenna.

Mary Ring will serve as fashion moderator, while model headdress will be shown by Josephine O'Farrell, Mrs. L. Leo Sullivan, Anne Dobbyn and Frances Sweeney.

For That Starchy Look

By ANNICE BRINK

YOU, TOO, can be as crisply, freshly alluring as a Gibson Girl ever was . . . and you don't have to stay up all evening ironing miles of cotton ruffles so stiff with starch that they're papery, the way mother did!

There's nothing for that fresh-bathed look like a white blouse, we always say. And when they cost as little as these—one little, undeniable dollar!—there is no reason why you shouldn't have a newly done up one every day this whole spring through!

Bemberg was too good a thing to keep in the lingerie department (this requires the least pressing of all) and it has the exquisite sheerness of chiffon, with the modern touch of "glass fabric" look. That's the way the blouse in the lower right sketch impressed us. Nice ruffled frill, too.

Upper left is another dressable dotted swiss affair, with rows of baby lace and crochet-reverse buttons! Authentic old fashioned girl, to say the least.

FOR SHOPPING information on these blouses, sizes 32-40, and only $1 apiece, phone Annice Brink, Fashion Editor, LIBerty 4000, week days until 5:30, or write.

You Can be Beautiful

Replenish Oils of Youth

By ARLINE GOULD

DID IT EVER occur to you that a dry skin properly cared for need never be complained of again—ever?

But this only can occur with the discovery of an absolutely perfect replenishing cosmetic.

It may seem to you like a search for the grail, or something equally mythical and impossible . . . but many a dry skinned lass who regretfully saw wrinkles and harsh texture robbing her complexion of beauty has discovered a "cream emollient" and been convinced that the long hunt is over!

It is a cosmetic which is not only formulated with great pride in the costly rare oils and base that are used but made loving is every step of the way it is hand made, hand beaten, hand packed.

It contains no water, which means that it will go three times as far as other creams, of the same type and it is scented delicately as a shy April blossom. Use it every night of your life.

Rich oils that are not heavy but so fine that they melt into the skin have been used. And they are super balanced. Which means that every oil a dry skin needs, to soothe, nourish and sustain it, has been included!

With such painstaking effort to reach perfection, you can do no less than your share in equalling it when you use the cream, if you are to feel its rejuvenating power. Therefore, be sure to use the cream exactly as you're told to. And the Boston shop which exclusively carries this cream has a special representative who will demonstrate the correct way. Correct application means so much to a skin that should be coaxed back to fresh smooth young beauty.

After trials with a variety of methods for cleansing was decided upon as the best to keep the skin absent the necessary oils. This means no rubbing in stretching of delicate tissues. Use the thumb and forefinger together in a gentle pick up motion, covering only the smallest area at a time.

To learn about this replenishing perfectly-balanced dry skin cream emollient with lanolin as a base, and remember it does three times as far, phone Arline Gould LIBerty 4000 week days until five thirty, or write her, enclosing a stamped, self addressed envelope.

For Boy Friend

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

My boy friend's birthday is coming up in May, and I want to give him something nice but as he doesn't smoke, rather dislikes to have me wear jewelry, can't you suggest something else?

GIRL FRIEND

Leather articles are always good presents to give the boy friend. A photo frame, a tiny case, a sewing box, desk accessories, books are always acceptable, but be sure to find out what kind he likes best. A man's favorite author, or his favorite magazine is good. Neckties are always safe if you know how to pick them and from what I hear, boys, as well as men, like candy.

Corn America's Own Cereal

FROM MARTHA LEE'S WEDNESDAY BROADCAST OVER STATION WMEX—11:30 A M

An old adage that "romance comes wrapped, or rumored, in packages seems made for America's own cereal, common field corn.

Even the most everyday foods acquire a romantic air as they grow [illegible] primitive or pioneer times. So it has been with dishes made of corn meal, grits or hominy in America, from the tortillas of Mexico to the "stamp and go" corn-fish cakes of Jamaica, and from the simple "hasty pudding" of the New England states to the spoon bread of the South.

And when it comes to corn bread, the motto "All things to all men" seems applicable. Traditionally the Southern corn "pone" is the simplest of all corn breads and "Johnny cake" is its Northern cousin. In practice the name is proof of nothing, and many of the ingredients of corn bread—aside from corn meal, of course—can hardly be foretold. Fancy also dictates the cooking method, and some corn breads are even baked on top of the stove in griddle cake fashion.

But to the real lover of corn bread, the plainer the better. It is made very simply from corn meal, liquid and fat and some [illegible] agent. Proportions are [illegible] and many famous have their own favorite recipes. But if [illegible] from the old South [illegible] with your family, remember that [illegible] more food value if [illegible] using a [illegible] of [illegible] meal. "Tough" on the Butcher!

Camilla

by Anne Stretton, who wrote 'PROPOSAL'

SIMON PUNISHES Camilla. "You can go upstairs to your room, and stay there 'til tomorrow evening," he tells her.

Who's Who and What's Happened:

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

CAMILLA and MARK might have come into a fine inheritance if their father, a famous but eccentric writer, had married their mother. But this he neglected to do, and when he died he left no provision for his children. He did, however leave a little interest in the house to their mother.

GLADYS, who had no maternal affection at all for Camilla and Mark. And he willed the lands of Dore to

SIMON, a cousin. Simon managed the estate efficiently, and was always quite good-natured with Camilla and Mark, but not much was known about this strange family, as Camilla and Mark kept proudly aloof from the townspeople. They had no idea Simon was in love until the day he brought his fiancee, EVELYN, to Dore. Instinctively they disliked her, and knew that the feeling was mutual. But it was some time before it dawned on them that as Simon's wife, she would probably have them sent away.

Now Continue:

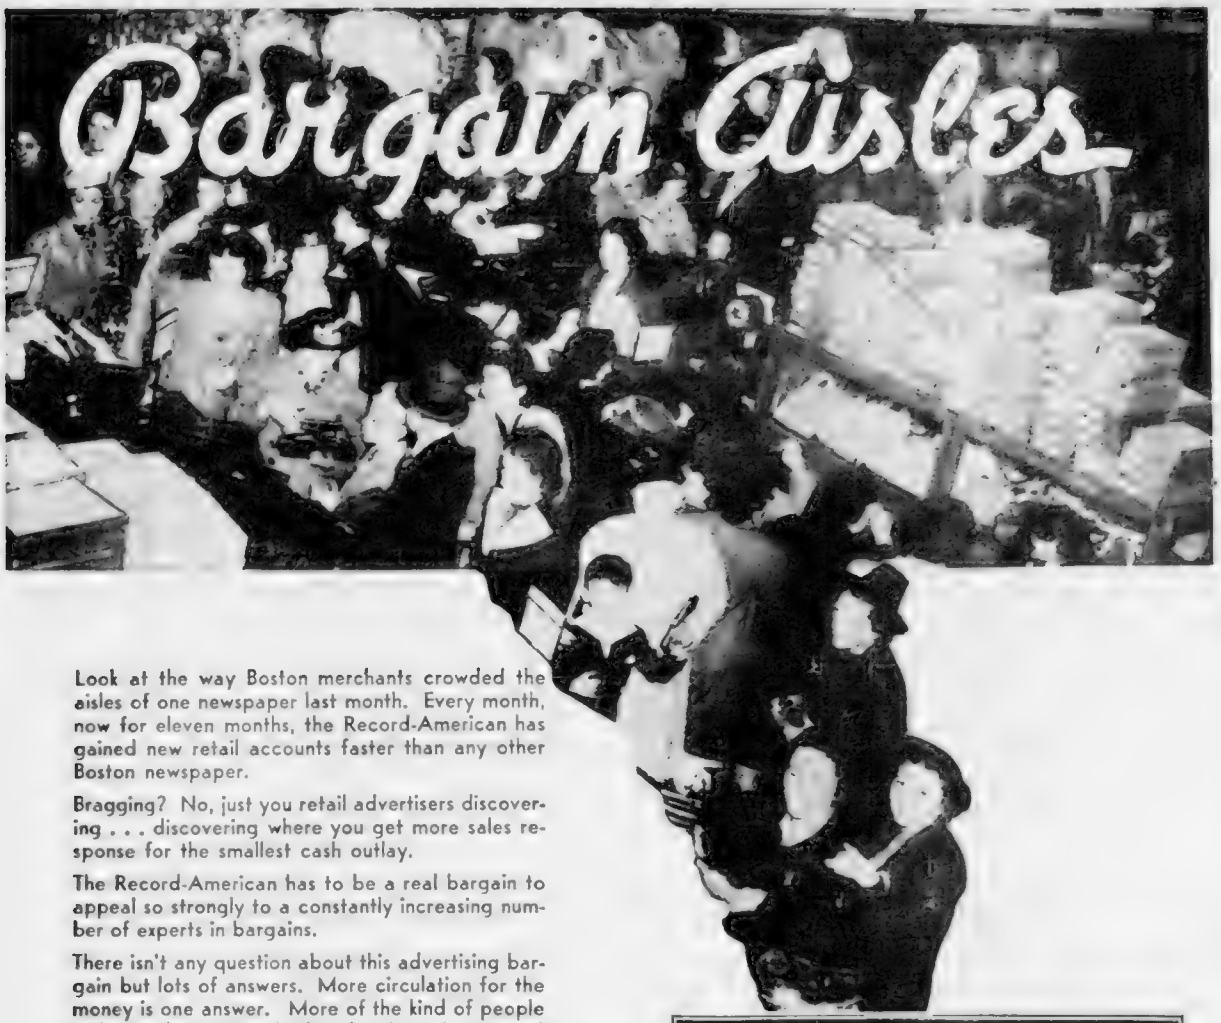
CHAPTER NINE

"YES. Well I have thought for some time that my being legal heir ought not to make any difference," Simon continued evenly. "Dore shouldn't have been left to me, really . . ."

He rose and stood looking down into the hearth. "The whole thing was unjust enough from the beginning. At any rate, I've thought so for the last year or two, and I haven't intended to keep the place. Unless you turned out a poisonous little rotter," he added, smiling but without looking at his cousin.

In the [illegible] Mark tried to say something but the words wouldn't come. His mouth suddenly was very dry. He couldn't believe what he understood. His cousin's words couldn't possibly mean what they sounded as though they meant. But his heart was hammering dizzily in his chest and his throat felt constricted.

"As I don't think you're a bit terrified, Sir, at what I have arranged to do with your future, I've been arranging to do with your future, I've been arranging to do with your future, I've been arranging



Look at the way Boston merchants crowded the aisles of one newspaper last month. Every month, now for eleven months, the Record-American has gained new retail accounts faster than any other Boston newspaper.

Bragging? No, just you retail advertisers discovering . . . discovering where you get more sales response for the smallest cash outlay.

The Record-American has to be a real bargain to appeal so strongly to a constantly increasing number of experts in bargains.

There isn't any question about this advertising bargain but lots of answers. More circulation for the money is one answer. More of the kind of people with spending money (rather than investing money) listening to your sales messages. Double the selling due to the Record-American's demonstrated "Two Day Selling" work. More attention to your advertising because the page size removes competition for attention. And the final answer, more results per advertising dollar. All these answers total up to a bona fide bargain in newspaper advertising . . . the Record-American.

Following the trend of Boston's retail advertising will give you a better customer following than blind following of tradition.

Elissa Landi's Play Received With Enthusiasm

By PEGGY DOYLE

[illegible] was a premiere performance for a couple of years to be sure, by Hungarian and Hungarian Elissa Landi in "The Lady Has a Heart," the Ludwig Bar Fodor comedy which opened the [illegible] night at the Plymouth.

"The Lady Has a Heart," which Edward Barry Roberts acquired from the Hungarian, presents Miss Landi a genuine and most charming Hungarian role as a most charming footloose Hungarian countess.

It is the first production of C. B. Dillingham and Frank McCoy who have not had a new play at the Plymouth of late of late stage film starring stage and screen favorites at drastically reduced rates.

Tonight Cape Playhouse patrons last summer saw Miss Landi in "The Lady Has a Heart," which played a successful summer on Broadway in the fall of 1937.

It is a pity that it must once again be restricted to a short engagement because Miss Landi's heart was more than generous to the visiting screen celebrity in the matter of applause. She is a gracious personality and a capable actress but she is in an effective triangle and inept situations.

Her best appearance of the evening was in the [illegible] between her and her fiancé after [illegible] discovers that [illegible] has [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

BRADSHAW

Meat Packing Important Here

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW
Financial Editor

Industrial Massachusetts is often thought of as consisting solely of shoe factories and textile mills . . . when, actually, many lines of trade compose its rather complex industrial economy . . . which employs a huge army of workers whose needs support and maintain immense service industries . . .

TO BEGIN WITH . . .

DISTINGUISHED VISITOR . . . To Boston this week was David Sarnoff . . . Who was the guest of President Gleason L. Archer of Suffolk . . .

History of Radio to 1926 . . . It represented the first authentic work on the newest addition to the communications industry . . . And won him much acclaim among pioneers and executives of the industry . . . Which resulted in Mr. Sarnoff and Owen D. Young, board chairman of Radio, offering him complete access to their files in New York . . . And Professor Archer has made liberal use of the official records in preparing his coming "Big Business and Radio" . . .

APPOINTMENT . . . Of G. H. Rockwell, vice-president of the Cambridge Rubber Co., to the Agriculture Cooperation Committee of the National Association of Manufacturers is announced today . . . By Howard Coonley, the Association's president . . . The committee is one of 25 permanent bodies set up by the NAM covering all phases of American industrial development . . . As well as matters pertinent to business in general . . . Thus while Mr. Rockwell's appointment to such an important post is a deserved honor, it is also a recognition of extraordinary work . . . For such committees must prepare formal reports for submission to the Congress of American Industry . . .

UNITED FRUIT CO . . . This season's long time prospect of industrial and trade good will among the Americas is doing well . . . The estimate of first quarter earnings released by Comptroller Cary B. Tatum [illegible] as $3,000,000 . . . That is before depreciation and without allowance for unrealized [illegible] on German business since the first of the year . . .

Folly Seen In Dam Project

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER
International News Service Economic Commentator

BONNEVILLE, Oregon, April 12 (INS)—Army engineers have done a fine job in building a dam, a powerhouse, a ship [illegible] on the Columbia river 40 miles east of Portland. But vested interests held by civil administrators have thus far prevented the locality from reaping the economic benefits . . .

Railway Sold At Auction

An auction sale of 2934 shares of common stock of the Spring[illegible] Railway Company, [illegible] by Judge H[illegible] in suit in New Haven [illegible] was held today in the Boston Post Office Building . . .

The shares were bought by H. W. Poor & Co., Boston, for Mr. Crocker, offered to the [illegible] the minimum price set by the court for the sale of the stock . . .

Bertley W. Watson, counsel for the trustees of the Spring[illegible] Railway, was present at the sale . . .

Europe Sends Gold to U. S.

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP)—[illegible] of gold to the United States [illegible] Monday, reports of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York showed today. The total of $[illegible] was the largest in a month . . .

LONDON, April 12 (AP)—What [illegible] . . . [illegible] . . . [illegible] . . . [illegible] . . . especially transatlantic and industrial stocks, were maintained, but continental selling of oil and gold shares caused them to close irregularly . . .

HITS N. E. LOSSES IN PUERTO RICO

Declaring the important Puerto Rican market for shoes and textiles is slowly being "choked to death," Representative Edith Nourse Rogers of Lowell today struck hard at the reciprocal trade agreement program and other New Deal policies . . .

Pointing out that Puerto Rico has been one of the leading purchasers of American products—especially those of New England manufacture, Representative Rogers said:

"The economic welfare of the island has been so endangered through lowering of tariff walls on its products, and the inflexibility of the wage-hour law that it is likely to become impoverished and another market will be lost to us."

She pointed out that while working conditions in the island are entirely different from those in the United States, no provision was made in the law for industries in Puerto Rico, and advocated a thorough investigation to determine what wage-hour laws should be applicable there . . .

"The minimums should be made high enough to prevent migration of industry from the United States to the island, but at the same time low enough to enable industry there to survive and provide employment for the people," she said.

"The wage-hour law was designed to be helpful, not harmful. But it has been harmful in the case of Puerto Rico, since those who wrote the bill apparently failed to take into consideration the peculiar disadvantages of industry there.

"It has thrown people out of work there, making them less able to buy products from our factories and farms in the States."

Sell Texas Bonds

NEW YORK, April 12 (AP)—A Underwriting group headed by Dillon, Read & Company announced it was offering for public today $16,000,000 of 2¾ per cent [illegible] bonds as part of a new capital financing program [illegible] Texas Corporation . . .

The [illegible] were priced at April 1 1964 at [illegible] per cent, plus accrued interest . . .

Bruins Ice Attack Forces Art to Smile

TORONTO, Ont., April 12—The Boston Bruins gave demonstrations and the Toronto Maple Leafs took lessons last night in the big glacial ark which looks like a trained and slopes up from rink to roof like the middle, $3.30 sections of the Harvard Stadium. Our side triumphed — if "triumph" is not too small a word for the Bruins' job of work, by 3 to 1 and left the local burghers with little use for their burglar alarms, fish-bugles, and multifarious ear-splitting machinery. In fact, the only noise, until Gus Marker goosed the little black bath-tub plug past Brimsek 40 seconds before the final buzzer was a vast, sucking sigh that sounded like the Ontario wind moaning in the upper cornices of the Royal York Hotel—as it is moaning now.

AUSTEN LAKE

It was an afterthought goal, so that all else the Leafs got was a heavy perspiration and a dislocated shoulder by Busher Jackson, an ailment received while trying to climb Eddie Shore's thick trunk. Busher managed to get as far as Eddie's foliage when he fell off.

After it was over and while his employes were unhitching their canvas corsets, Uncle Arthur Ross, the Bruins' fence-thumper, unscrewed his coroner's visage and formed his loose wrinkles into a grin like a cat that had swallowed the family canary. "You may say," quoth Uncle Arthur ponderously, "that I am satisfied."

This was an epic in optimism and even Mr. Bill Grimes, the patriarch of the press box, could not remember when he had heard Uncle say that he was satisfied. In fact, Dr. Crowley, the firm's surgeon, dropped a few stitches in Jack Portland's head-wound—an ugly gouge that ran like a red mouth between his eyes. Trainer Frank Jones fumbled an armload of sticks. Dit Clapper swallowed the cap of a tonic bottle. Cooney Weiland dropped his best pants in a bath puddle.

Turk Broda Shows His Wrath

It was funny how the Bruins got the [illegible] goal. [illegible] was [illegible] the papa and mama [illegible] others. The [illegible] scattered [illegible] a pair of goose eggs [illegible] sides as the [illegible] their underwear for the third period. Before Mervyn [illegible] tossed the stopper down [illegible] Busher scooted down the [illegible] heard and made a [illegible] Linda's fatted calves.

There was hardly [illegible] a couple of days [illegible] legs and for a moment [illegible] as though cursing them for [illegible] a Cuba track.

"I've fed you and washed you," he seemed to be saying. "I've rubbed nice smelling liniments on you and put you to bed . . ." In fact Turk showed plainly that he wished to disown the ungrateful limbs. His knees must have blushed.

The next [illegible] was [illegible] It was [illegible] the evening was over. [illegible] was [illegible] Leafs [illegible] the Leafs began [illegible] except Primeau, Metz [illegible] and Mayer. Cowley Makes Conacher Look Smart

So presently Bill Cowley sneaked the puck and went off like a bandit thief. He could have hogged the glory himself, but being a good company man, he whoed down as Broda swam out to meet him, spreading the loose folds of his stomach and drooling over the ice like an oyster. Bill passed to Roy Conacher, maybe wishing to make Roy, who is a local lad, look good before his home folks.

If so it was a grandiloquent gesture, with Roy slapping the plug off Turk's snet and into the net. So Turk got up, a little at a time, rearranged his wrinkles and looked down at his middle as though to say, "I've been pretty good to you but here's where you go on a diet of wind, hay and imagination."

The third Bruin goal was a kind of company-front affair, with Crawford, Cowley and Conacher parading down and arguing who should have the final favor. Cowley, selfishly, was ready to concede another shot to Roy, but the kid said, "No, I thank you, but I am no shot hog."

"Jack has burned up a lot of man power and skated a good ten miles between jerks, stops and twists." So that made a majority vote and Crawford was elected to give a leisurely little nudge and make the red exit light blink again.

Well [illegible] was [illegible] The [illegible] was [illegible] was lined with [illegible] and [illegible] as the [illegible] began to [illegible] the [illegible] from their lips and [illegible] the [illegible] of Charley [illegible] [illegible] second [illegible] on the [illegible] was [illegible] up, [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] Toronto fans were [illegible] Finally, [illegible] the [illegible] delegation were about [illegible] for [illegible] when Gus Marker, [illegible] Leafs squatted down and [illegible] pucks.

It was a darn good thing too, before the Boston people [illegible] from suffocation because just as Gus sank the shot the Forum expanded their breath in one grand cataclysmic shout and there was enough [illegible] atmosphere to [illegible] a thousand years.

when they returned here after winning the second game of the Stanley Cup series in Boston. They were under the impression that they had the Rosemen on the run but they were sadly disillusioned after having gone [illegible] the Leafs had [illegible] together. The Bruins came back and tripped [illegible] a flock of goals to [illegible] the end in the battle for the world's championship title.

Art Ross didn't give his hirelings a fight talk before they went on the ice last night. He simply talked with a few of his key men, Eddie Shore, "Dit" Clapper, Frankie Brimsek, Bill Cowley and Bobby Bauer. He told them that he expected a victory and was confident that they would live up to his expectations. He did warn them not to be overcautious and to gamble when ever they got a break.

BRUINS TURN ON HEAT TO BEAT MAPLE LEAFS

But the gathering at the Maple Leafs Gardens last night was far more partisan than any of that turned out to support the Rossmen in the Boston Garden.

Like all rabid hockey addicts, the Toronto fans could see no wrong in any of the Maple Leaf tactics. But on the other hand, the Bruins were booed every time that a Leaf fell.

In the second period when "Busher" Jackson crossed wires and turned into Lorne Shore, the Torontonians gave the Bruins star a fine going over.

BUSHER AT FAULT

While Dr. Rush was setting his dislocated shoulder, "Busher" Jackson admitted that it was his fault. He said that he tried to outreach Shore and turned the wrong way.

Bobby Bauer, Milt Dunnell and Jackson Crawford did the scoring for the Bruins. Bauer tapped in the first goal on a pass from Dunnell and Crawford scored on passes from Jackson and Bauer, respectively, after Jackson had set up a perfect pass for Crawford. Crawford, who after failing to score on his first two shots, made his first goal of the season in the Toronto cage. The third and final marker was made by Crawford with the assistance of Roy Conacher and Bill Cowley.

The Maple Leafs did not take kindly to their defeat at the hands of the Bruins and were quoted that they would see Bruins Number 4 (Dunnell) never again in Boston. But when the final whistle was entered in the ledger and they discovered that two of the three goals had been scored by Toronto boys, who had slipped away from their clubs, they burned up.

CONACHER STARS

Roy Conacher and Jack Crawford are the talk of the Queen City today. They had played four games for the Bruins at the Maple Leaf Gardens prior to last night but hadn't been any too impressive.

But, the Toronto fans began to realize that young Conacher was a major leaguer when they saw him recover his composure and feed Turk Broda and they quickly changed their opinions of Jack Crawford, when the husky defense man maneuvered into position to take Conacher's pass for the third Boston goal.

Frankie Brimsek was about to hang up his 11th shutout of the season. But, in the final minutes of play, Doc Romnes, the St. Paul Mann, boy, who scored the winning goal in the second game in Boston fed Gus Marker a nice pass for the lone Maple Leaf tally.

The Maple Leafs are working out today in the gymnasium but the Bruins are resting up. "Busher" Jackson has an appointment to have his shoulder X-rayed today but according to the latest reports, he's through for the season.

Jack Portland is carrying around three stitches on his forehead and Eddie Shore has a painful "charlie horse." Otherwise the Bruins came through without a serious injury.

Name Bowling Prize Winners Tomorrow

By WALTER KILEY

The lengthy list of winners both amateur and professional, of the recently concluded Boston Evening American Daily Record candlepin bowling championships, will be published in tomorrow's Boston American.

Together with the names of the many winners will be the prize awards which are to be presented at the Huntington Club, 255 Huntington avenue, Boston, at 4:30 o'clock, Saturday afternoon.

Following the giving away of prizes will come the men's professional singles finals, over the 10 strings route with 20 of New England's greatest male rollers, all qualifiers in last Saturday's trials and semi-finals, seeking top money and the 1939 title, vacated when Harry Arathuzik of Lynn, 1938 champion, fell by the trials way side.

MISS WADE AN AMATEUR

A further note of importance to day is that Miss Marian Wade of Northampton, bowling as a member of the Shamrocks of Florence should have been announced as women's amateur all-eve's champion.

Through oversight it was previously made public that Miss Mary Poremba of Lawrence with a total of 931 had lifted the nine string title.

But a check discloses that Miss Wade with her 931 in the competitions as a member of the Shamrocks 254 in the doubles and 306 in the singles came home with an all-events total of 931 pins, two more than Miss Poremba. Hence the title.

So we offer our apologies for the unintentional error in Miss Poremba's big achievement and congratulations and winner of the Mayor Maurice J. Tobin Trophy and our felicitations to Miss Wade.

Olympic Sextet Made Money

The most amazing season in amateur hockey history has just been concluded in the Boston Garden.

Playing on the same ice with the Boston Bruins and winning only 2 out of 15 games, the amateur Boston Olympics, representatives of Boston made an average of [illegible] per game, playing to 29 of which were played at the Garden, several at the Arena.

The players on the Olympics were [illegible] Goal Tenders, and Fenton [illegible] Defense [illegible] Forwards, [illegible] Centers, [illegible] Wings, [illegible] Rovers, [illegible] Subs, [illegible] Coach, [illegible] Manager, [illegible] Trainer, [illegible] Referee, [illegible] Timer, [illegible] Penalty Timer, [illegible] Goal Judges, [illegible] Announcer, [illegible] Ice Cleaners, [illegible] Ice Makers, [illegible] Ice Shavers, [illegible] Ice Scrapers, [illegible] Ice Polishers, [illegible] Ice Sweepers, [illegible] Ice Mopers, [illegible] Ice Washers, [illegible] Ice Rinsers, [illegible] Ice Wringers, [illegible] Ice Hangers, [illegible] Ice Dryers, [illegible] Ice Folders, [illegible] Ice Packers, [illegible] Ice Shippers, [illegible] Ice Receivers, [illegible] Ice Storers, [illegible] Ice Keepers, [illegible] Ice Guards, [illegible] Ice Watchmen, [illegible] Ice Janitors, [illegible] Ice Porters, [illegible] Ice Boys, [illegible] Ice Girls, [illegible] Ice Men, [illegible] Ice Women, [illegible] Ice Children, [illegible] Ice Babies, [illegible] Ice Infants, [illegible] Ice Toddlers, [illegible] Ice Crawlers, [illegible] Ice Walkers, [illegible] Ice Runners, [illegible] Ice Skaters, [illegible] Ice Hockey Players, [illegible] Ice Goalies, [illegible] Ice Defensemen, [illegible] Ice Forwards, [illegible] Ice Centers, [illegible] Ice Wingers, [illegible] Ice Rovers, [illegible] Ice Subs, [illegible] Ice Coaches, [illegible] Ice Managers, [illegible] Ice Trainers, [illegible] Ice Referees, [illegible] Ice Timers, [illegible] Ice Penalty Timers, [illegible] Ice Goal Judges, [illegible] Ice Announcers

Joe Clancey Gets Report on Bees

Stengel's Club Has New Power

WASHINGTON, April 12.

Mr. Joseph Clancey,
Dear Joe:

As the originator of the now famous controversy between Bees and Red Sox supporters, I believe I should make a personal report to you on how Casey Stengel's club looks to me.

I have gathered my information as I have watched the Bees in practice and in exhibition games, and as I have talked with experts, fans and players under palm trees, on golf courses and on beaches which have miles of glistening, white sand.

The sun has usually been shining and the temperature around 75 degrees as I have made my study of the Bees. I make this statement to assure you that I have undergone any physical or mental suffering as I have sized up Casey Stengel's outfit for you.

I make the following findings:

1—The Bees will not win the National League pennant this year, but will have an important part in deciding which club does finish in first place. Remember what the Bees did to the Reds last year when Bill McKechnie was pennant bound."

2—The Bees have one of the best pitching staffs in baseball. I offer as my exhibits in the order of their importance at this writing: (a) Lou Fette. (b) Milburn Shoffner. (c) Jim Turner. (d) Danny MacFayden. (e) Tom Early. (f) Fred Frankhouse. (g) Dick Errickson, Bill Posedel, Joe Sullivan and John Lanning. You can scratch the other pitchers and by so doing save entry fees.

3—The Bees have increased batting strength. Al Simmons, Debs Garms, Buddy Hassett, Elbie Fletcher and Eddie Miller can help make me look good by stepping up to the plate and knocking out a few hits at opportune moments of ball games once the going sounds for the opening league clash with the Phillies in Boston next Tuesday afternoon.

4—I agree with Bucky Harris, manager of the Senators, that Al Lopez is the best catcher in the National League. Without Lopez, some of the famous Bees pitchers might be rated only as throwers. Al calls the shots and has been doing a pretty good job of it. Phil Masi and Stanley Andrews have not won any degrees as catchers, but must be rated as promising freshmen. If their Latin and mathematics are as good as their receiving and throwing, they may get 70 ratings before the middle of June.

Eddie Miller Knows His Way Around

5—EDDIE MILLER knows his way around shortstop. He enjoys diving for balls, and tossing the runner out at first when flat on his stomach. He also starts double plays from this position. For a little fellow Miller can hit the old agate an amazingly long distance. He will get many two base hits before it is time to parade on Labor Day.

6—Buddy Hassett isn't a great right fielder as yet, but is trying and can hit. Buddy wanted to play first base, but Elbie Fletcher has beaten him out for the job. Fifteen extra pounds of weight and real competition have improved Fletcher's game. Elbie can still improve his base running, and hitting without danger of upsetting Stengel too much.

7—Debs Garms will play third base even though he at times kicks around ordinary grounders. Garms has a habit of letting the ball play him rather than playing the ball. Garms is an earnest, hard working player, and his fielding should get better. Nobody has been known to make any complaints about Debs' batting. Last year he was the Bees' only .300 hitter, while this Spring he has been whacking the Horsehide right on the nose.

Johnny Cooney Best in Centerfield

8—JOHN COONEY at the age of 37 is still the best center fielder the Bees have. Max West and Jimmy Outlaw, with youth on their side, should be way out front of Cooney but they are not. Cooney is sure on hard hit balls, while West and Outlaw are uncertain when in the field. It looks as if Cooney would start the season in center field, and it is hoped that when the veteran star does plow up that West and Outlaw will be sufficiently improved to take his place.

9—The Bees have some rookies who look as if they know how to play ball. I note Ralph Hodgins and Sebastian Sisti. These players may be farmed out for some more minor league experience, but they will come back seeking big league laurels. Sisti is only 18 years of age, and is still carrying his high school diploma around with him. The boy is a ball player, and gets better every time he tosses a ball or whales the agate.

10—Tony Cuccinello still rates as one of the smartest and best fielding second basemen in the league, and will be of great help to Eddie Miller.

11—With a few hitting breaks, the Bees can finish in the first division and cure some of the headaches of Bob Quinn and Casey Stengel.

I'll be looking for you at the first of the Bees-Sox games on Saturday. Tomorrow I'll give you a report on the Red Sox.

MR. BOSTON.

Sox Spares Can Field But Are Weak at Bat

By JOE CASHMAN

ROANOKE, Va., April 12—If a ball club is only as good as its reserves—a theory to which every manager subscribes—the Red Sox are a powerful defensive unit, but not so hot offensively.

Tommy Carey, "Boze" Berger, Leo Nonnenkamp and Fabe Gaffke, the Fenway flock's leading second-stringers, are exceptionally versatile and able performers afield.

Berger can do a bang-up job at any of the four infield positions. Indeed, he's the defensive equal of any of the regulars in the four berths.

Carey can fill in most acceptably at second, third or short.

Nonnenkamp is the best fly-chaser on the squad and can do a fair country job of playing first base.

Gaffke is at home in any of the three garden positions and, in a pinch, could go in and catch.

GAFFKE BEST WITH STICK

Each of the quartet would be a regular if he could hit .300, but none can.

Gaffke is the best sticker of the four. He may not greatly out-hit the others as far as averages are concerned, but he has more power than the three of them combined.

Carey and Nonnenkamp are far from being set-ups at the platter, but they rarely hit a long ball. Berger is simply an anaemic hitter.

Everything considered, though, the Sox are stronger in reserves with this quartet around than they have been since Joe Cronin assumed command.

None of the subs is a stranger to Boston fandom, though two of them are making their bow as Sox this spring.

Berger played often at the Fens as a member of the Indians and White Sox, and Carey played many games there as a St. Louis Brownie.

Incidentally, Carey was a bitter foe of the Sox in those days because of a flareup on the part of an erstwhile Fenwayite named Billy Werber, who now happens to be a Cincinnati Red.

CHALLENGED WERBER

Werber, taking exceptions to being winged by a wild pitch of "Lefty" Van Atta in the Sox-Browns game in St. Louis late in 1936, tried to gain revenge at the expense of the diminutive Carey, who was playing second base.

Wilful Will, on a stealing expedition, jumped into Carey with spikes chest high. Little Tommy never budged. He slapped the ball on Bill for the out, and then challenged him. The "umps" broke it up before any blows were struck.

Cronin, at the time, complained to Boston scribes about their stories, which took Werber to task for his rowdyism.

But, whether or not that incident had anything to do with it, it wasn't long before Boss Joe had sold Werber and was negotiating to acquire Carey. The Browns turned down one bid after another, but finally surrendered last fall when offered Johnny Marcum.

There's been no signs of bad blood between Werber and Carey during the Sox-Reds exhibition series, which ends here today, but it's probably just as well for the general peace of baseball that they're not going to be in the same league this season.

STENGEL SENDS SISTI TO B'S HARTFORD FARM

By JACK CONWAY

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 12—Casey Stengel announced today he was sending Pitcher Al Hazel and Infielders Sebastian Sisti and Carvel Rowell to the Hartford Club.

WASHINGTON, April 12—The Bees and Senators play the first of a two-game series before Capital fans here today, and then hop for Boston where they rest on Friday before opening their city series with the Red Sox on Saturday.

It was a relief for the Bees and Senators to know that they would get an opportunity today to play on a big league ball field. The baseball orchards in Florida and on the way North have not been anything to cheer about, and infielders and outfielders were fortunate to come through these tests without receiving bad injuries as a result of the poor condition of the grounds.

The sun baked sand infields in Florida are as fast as concrete, and furnished many risks for the players.

GARMS IMPROVING

Casey Stengel believes that Debs Garms will field better at third base now that he has better playing fields. Stengel says he is anxious to keep Garms in the regular lineup on account of his .300 hitting, and he is hoping that Debs does not let him down too often in the field.

Those rookies who are to leave the club for further seasoning at Hartford and with other minor league clubs will be on their way before the team leaves here. Stengel gave all of the youngsters fair tryouts, and each of them had an opportunity to show just what he could do.

The games with the Senators have given the Bees pitchers a chance to test their stuff against big league fire.

PITCHERS STRONG

It looks as if the Bees are once again going to be strong on the mound with Fette, Turner, MacFayden, Sheffner, Frankhouse and Lanning as their first line defense.

Al Lopez has got off to a good start behind the bat, and so Stengel has no worry regarding his catching department. Masi and Andrews will furnish Lopez with what help he may need.

The Bees will leave here tomorrow night, and will be in Boston on Friday morning.

Entries Pour in For 'Pure' Tilt

Although only two days have passed since the second Diamond Ring amateur boxing tournament was held at the Arena, the Irish-American A. A. is flooded with entries for its third trial show, which will be held next Monday at the Arena.

Among the boys in line are Almeida Roderick, East Boston; Bobby Gilman, Boston, and Joe Teebage, Dorchester, 112; Joe Bannen, Jamaica Plain; Joe Doucette, Lynn, and Lawrence Giles, Wilmington, bantamweight; James Pinckney, Boston; Joe Connolly, Dorchester, and Edward Dutra, Taunton, 126 pounds.

In the lightweight group are Gordon Kauffperon, New Bedford; Carl Burgess, Taunton, and Joe Halligan, Fitchburg, as well as George Crawford of Boston and Thomas Lennon of Wilmington. William Bigger and James Pettie of Woburn are entered in the 147 pounds class as well as Noble S. Ray, Jr., Belmont, and Gordon Redfearn, New Bedford.

Heading the 175-pound list is Alex Belushko of Cambridge, who made such a hit a couple of weeks ago in his knock-em-down, drag-em-out contest with Tommy Sullivan, of South Boston.

The fourth trial show will be held April 14, the finals on May 1.

Meade Greatest In Game--Odom

NEW YORK, April 12 (INS)—The reinstatement of Jockey Don Meade by the all-powerful stewards of the Jockey Club would seem to indicate today that a little larceny may readily be forgiven by the turf, although a similar amount of larceny means banishment for life in baseball and many other sports.

The notorious Black Sox of 20 years ago were banished from baseball for all time.

That decision still stands for all of them, including one who took no part in throwing World Series games to the Reds but merely had knowledge of what his mates were doing.

We cite the parallel, not to quarrel with the Jockey Club decision or to start a controversy, but merely to stress that what is an unforgiveable offense and a breach of public confidence in one sport may be easily forgotten in another.

RATES WITH SLOAN

While Meade was in pleading his case and listening to a blistering warning from William Woodward, chairman of the Jockey Club, Trainer George Odom, the greatest rider of his day, who holds Meade's contract, gave us some interesting highlights on the little fellow's riding.

"Don," said Odom, "is without doubt the greatest rider in the world today. He can get more out of a race horse than anybody else.

"I would rate him as high as Tod Sloan, Danny Maher, Snapper Garrison, Earl Sande or any of the other famous old-timers.

"Like Sloan, he has revolutionized riding. He uses the shortest stirrups of anybody who ever threw a leg over a horse. He has a marvelous pair of hands, and it is those hands that spell the difference between him and an ordinary rider."

WANTS DERBY MOUNT

We collared the repentant Meade as he came out smiling from his ordeal and asked him to explain the short stirrups.

"Well, I always used them although lately I've lengthened them an inch or so for better balance. At first, some of the owners didn't want to let me ride their horses because they were afraid I'd fall off.

"I ride up on the horses' withers because it stands to reason it's easier for a horse to carry things on the shoulders than it is on the back.

"Now that I'm reinstated I hope to get a mount in the Kentucky Derby. I surely would like to win it."

Mrs. Mars Has Two in Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 12 (INS)—No Competition will carry the silks of Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' stables in the Kentucky Derby, with On Location in the secondary line of offense.

These were the indications at Churchill Downs today as the crack team completed the second hard workout since the noted sportswoman's string of 33 thoroughbreds reached the track last week.

Those who favor Technician, Flamingo Stakes winner, held the same opinion of the strapping colt after watching him gallop through a workout.

Hotter than a firecracker, technician was among the early top-flighters to reach the oval and start Derby preps.

The job, according to observers, was not to train him for the Derby, but to "keep him in the pink" for the classic.

Another well publicized fellow—Xalapa Clown—is doing his daily dozen in true blue-blood fashion. He turned in 1:46 2-5 for a mile trial spin.

Gainor, Fox Fight to Draw

Al Gainor of New Haven and Tiger Fox of Spokane, Washington, fought 10 tame rounds to a draw at Mechanics Building last night before 1761 customers. The affair billed as the "rubber" between the two dusky opponents failed to arouse the fans that paddled through the heavy rain.

The affair never did measure up to the set-to staged recently at Pittsburgh, which from all accounts was a dog-eat-dog scrap and which was followed up with another torrid joust in New Haven.

The two judges voted for a draw and Referee Watson cast his ballot for Gainor. The show grossed $1823 and the net was $1467.

"Buster" Carroll of Lowell, 148, registered the first ten-round victory of the night when he gave Young Byron of Roxbury, 139, a sound thumping most of the distance.

Snooks Lacey, 133½, New Haven and Vernon Cormier, 133½, skidded through ten rounds of fast fighting and it was unanimously called all even by the judges and referee.

Lacey appeared to have an edge, scoring the heavier punches especially a straight right hand shot to the chin in the final stanza that almost put Cormier on the seat of his trunks.

But the margin was none too great and the draw verdict was well received.

Quincy Amateur Bouts Postponed

Jimmy Gardner, promoter of amateur boxing tournaments for the Quincy A. A., today announced postponement of the last in a series of eliminations for the Diamond Ring Tournament from Friday of this week to next Thursday, April 20, at Quincy Arena.

Entries in the 118, 126, 135, 147, 160 and heavyweight classes are being received at Gardner's home, 37 Lurton street, Quincy.

Sington Gives DiMag a Rub

CHARLOTTE, N. C., April 12 (AP)—The Dodgers-Yankees' tour North is threatening to develop into a hitting and popularity duel between Freddie Sington, hopeful of winning an outfield job with Brokolyn, and Joe DiMaggio, the New York clouter.

Sington, former Alabama football lace, who's still a hero in the South, has driven in seven runs in two victories over the Yanks, while DiMaggio, held hitless for three days, got a good share of the cheers with two hard-hit doubles.

The Dodgers announced the release of First Baseman Bert Haas on option to Montreal.

THREE FORMER WINNERS IN B. A. A. MARATHON

PICKS WOODERSON OVER CUNNINGHAM

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, April 12 (AP)—It will be a great surprise to me if Sydney Wooderson, the scatter-footed little Englishman, does not run the legs off Glenn Cunningham, our top miler, in their long-awaited race at Princeton on June 17.

It has been my opinion for about four years that the frail-looking Londoner was the greatest miler in the world, capable of beating either Cunningham or Jack Lovelock, the great New Zealander, any time he met them in a special race.

I still think he would have won the 1500-meters in the 1936 Olympics at Berlin had it not been for an injured ankle, even though Lovelock raced to a record in that event.

A fierce light burns behind the spectacles of the little clerk.

You see, Wooderson came up the hard way, and I happened to be there to watch it happen.

Lovelock already was famous when Wooderson, running for an obscure club team around London, first challenged the great Oxford captain.

LOVELOCK PUZZLED

The crowd at the White City that day scarcely could credit its eyes when Wooderson, the unknown, came up in the stretch to pass Lovelock. Why, Wooderson wasn't even a "public school boy."

So they passed that one off as an accident. The mishap might soon have been forgotten, except that the next time they met on the same track Wooderson lit out and did it again. I saw it, and later saw Lovelock, and he was as puzzled as the next one.

"I was running the best I knew how," he said in his precise accent. "It looks as if I simply can't beat him, doesn't it?"

Indeed it did, and Lovelock nor any other runner has since beat Wooderson when he had the full use of his thin legs.

The records he has since set offer substantial proof of those victories over Lovelock were strictly on the level, little credit as he received for them even in England.

His is a country slow to take up an athlete unless he wins his "blue" either at Oxford or Cambridge.

Up to a year and a half ago, to my knowledge, the London sports pages still did not spell Wooderson's name correctly. In fact, most of them had a vague impression that his first name was Stanley. Possibly they still do.

Wooderson was so shy and quiet he did little to dissipate the faint atmosphere of mystery about himself.

He emerged to run a race for his Blackheath Harriers or to run against time, and then retired to his "clarks" stool in the financial section of London.

In the days preceding the Berlin Olympics I frequently say the London reporters clustered about Lovelock after he had finished a training run, but never saw them approach Wooderson.

Westenberg Plans to Lift Casey's Crown

Marvin Westenberg, formerly The Shadow, mounted the soap box this morning and announced he would dethrone Steve Casey when they tangle in their title wrestling match tomorrow night at Boston Garden.

"I whipped him before, and I'll do it again," said the Coast grappler. "A simple body lift bothers him no end.

"That leaves him vulnerable in a dozen different ways. I have his number, as I proved before, and I'm confident I'll be champion again tomorrow night."

The Westenberg-Casey match tops an interesting card. In the semifinal, Mayes McLain, former Haskell Institute fullback, tangles with Rebel Bob Russell of Newport.

In the preliminaries, Casey's two brothers, Jim and Tom, will appear.

Jim is down to meet Pat Kelley, while Tom goes to the mat against Heinie Olson.

Opening bouts pair Frank Brown and Wally Dusek, Pat Reilly and Steve Bertos.

N. U. Names Lineup For Opening Game

Joe Beaton of East Boston, former St. John's Prep star, will be at third base tomorrow, when Northeastern opens its varsity baseball season at Huntington Field against Lowell Textile.

Ed Lovequist, Waltham lefty, will be at first base, with Foxy Flumore of Natick at second, and the sensational Sammy Swardlick at short.

Veterans Alex Strussiero and Captain Bill Little will be joined by sophomore Sylvan Simon of Newton in the outfield.

The veteran Jim Connolly of Waltham will do the catching tomorrow, with either Dave Gerry of Topsfield or Gerry Bracken of Watertown pitching.

Pat Dengis Threat To Marathon Kings

Three former winners are already entered in the 43rd annual B. A. A. Marathon, which will be held over the Hopkinton-Boston route next Wednesday, but the most dangerous man in the race, in the opinion of many, is a non-winner, Pat Dengis of the Millrose A. A., New York.

Pat finished second last year, as Leslie Pawson won the race for the second time. But Pat was the strongest man in the race and but for his snail like pace over the first half of the course would have won it hands down.

Once before, in 1935, Dengis finished second to Johnny Kelley, another former winner entered.

Pat is a big, husky airplane mechanic employed by the government who is just about ready to take over top honors in the game.

WON AT YONKERS

Last November he won the national marathon championship at Yonkers, and seems to have hit his form.

He is thirsting for revenge for his poorly judged race in the Patriots' Day classic a year ago, and he plans to go all out from the gun this year to make sure of being up with the leaders.

Pat, with all his power and running ability, looms as the best United States bet in the Olympic games a year hence.

Pawson, Kelley and Walter Young are the three former winners entered. Off their records, they will go to the post co-favorites with Dengis. It should be one of the best races of all time B. A. A. history for in addition to the quality entered, there seems a likelihood that a record entry list will be registered.

Giant Matman Bull's Opponent

The biggest man in wrestling, Huge Harry Jacobs, who weighs 365 pounds, will attempt to halt the winning streak of Bull Martin in the main bout of Promoter Sam Price's show tonight at the Boston Arena.

Bull is no midget himself, tipping 230, but tonight he tackles the largest problem he's faced in his stormy mat career in the man mountain from California.

The bout is two falls out of three. Lightning is expected to flash in the semifinal when a duo of the speediest junior heavyweight wrestlers in this section—Manuel Cortez from Spain and Les Ryan from Fordham—collide.

A special bout brings together Chief War Eagle, full-blooded Indian from Quebec, and Joe Maynard, longshoreman from the Brooklyn waterfront.

U. S. YACHTSMEN LEAD
